I want to share a personal story with you. Like many of you know, having our first child can be exciting and nerve wrecking. My oldest in the picture below, Jadon, was born with a kidney abnormalty. In utero he had hydronephrosis and his right kidney was in despair. After his birth we had to wait to see how his kidney was functioning. When he finally hit 8 months the doctor had to make a move and perform surgery.

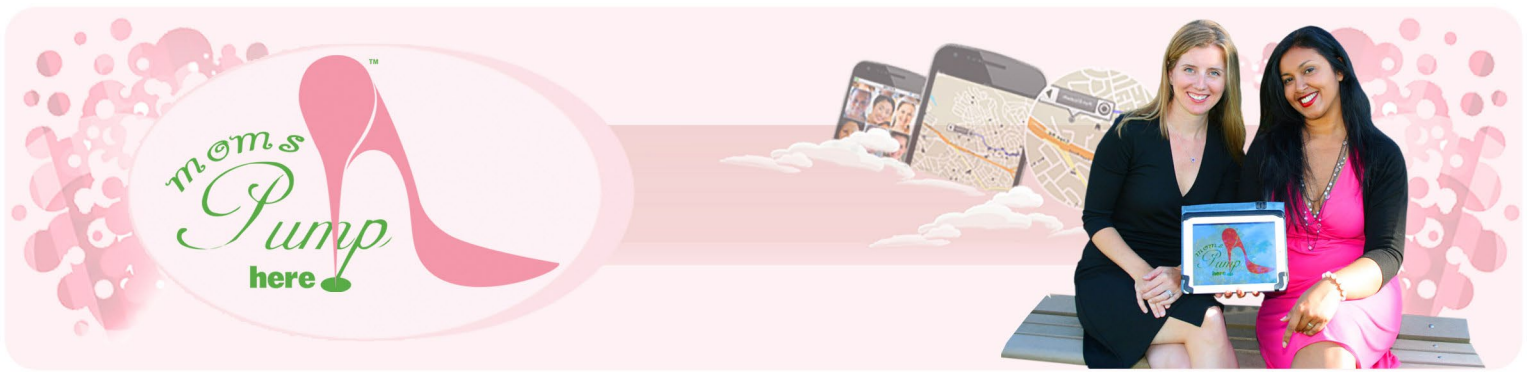

Thankfully everything went well during surgery but for 2 years of his life he had to take medications to fight off infections. I breastfed him for 10 months and breast pumped for him for quite some time after. His immune system has never been 100% but I can tell you I am so grateful I was able to give him breast milk for as long as I did to boost his immune system. A mother's love knows no boundaries. He is one out of 3 reasons why I am part of MomsPumpHere.

I can't avoid helping other moms, and I love it. On social media, they ask about motherhood and startup business and I happily answer them. Being a mom of 3 and business owner taught me to build tools that truly solve a need. That's why I cofounded MomsPumpHere community site, mobile site, and built our Nursing Room Locator app. I support working and stay at home moms breastfeeding and breast pumping away from home without shame and embarrassment. They shouldn't be forced to nurse in a car or dirty bathroom to balance work and a healthy infant.

As a mom of three boys, I've pumped in many places. At first I only did it occasionally to have time away from the baby – a friend's wedding or a day trip with my husband. Then I went back to work and needed to build a supply for my son heading to daycare or for Grandma to take care of him when I was away. I pumped in my office at work or at home, usually.

When my second son was born, I tried nursing with pumped milk in a bottle but at ten weeks old, I contracted swine flu and was told to stop nursing him. As a result he refused to nurse again. He was also diagnosed with dairy so I eliminated all dairy from my diet to give him the best milk I could. I was very upset that he would no longer be nursing, and I was concerned about using formula. Thankfully he took my pumped milk in a bottle, so I began to exclusively pump (EP) for him. I was on maternity leave, working full-time and traveling, and eventually traded my stressful management position for a work-at-home consulting job so I could stay home with both boys.

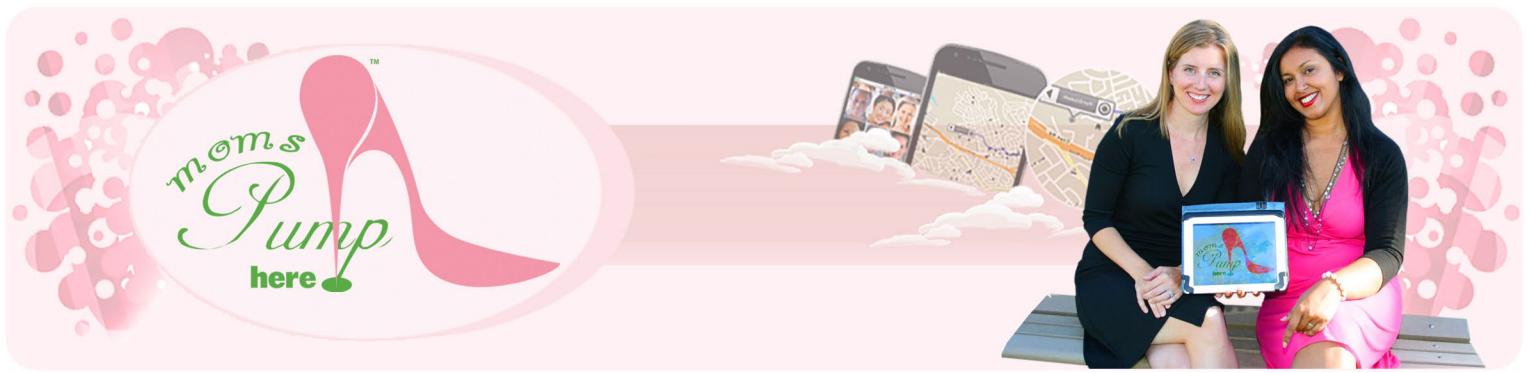

With my third son, I was fortunate to nurse on-demand most of the time but I had customers and projects that needed me, so I went back to work when he was only four weeks old. I pumped extra milk whenever I could, at a client's facility, when the boys were with caregivers, or even in the middle of the night while everyone slept. I pumped in offices, bathrooms, hotel and department store lounges, train stations, airports – anywhere I needed to.

Moms Pump Here was born from these adventures – the situation with my middle son taught me to bring my pump anywhere we went, feed him the best food a mom can make, and know that all is right with the world. Now I get to help other moms do the same.

Find, Rate, Share, Places To Breast Pump & Breastfeed!

MomsPumpHere is the first service to use smartphones to help moms easily locate places to breast pump or breastfeed on demand in privacy. Our mobile site and smartphone app allow moms to find, rate, and share safe places to express breast milk. We answer the question, can I pump here?

Quick Fact: Over 4 million babies are born a year in the US and 75% of those moms breastfeed and breast pump for up to 2 years. Childbirth, breast pumping, and breastfeeding is never-ending so we never stop helping moms. We have a network of places, and moms like you, who have pumped away from home and rated their pumping spots so we can know the safe, comfortable places to make milk for our little ones when we can't be with them.

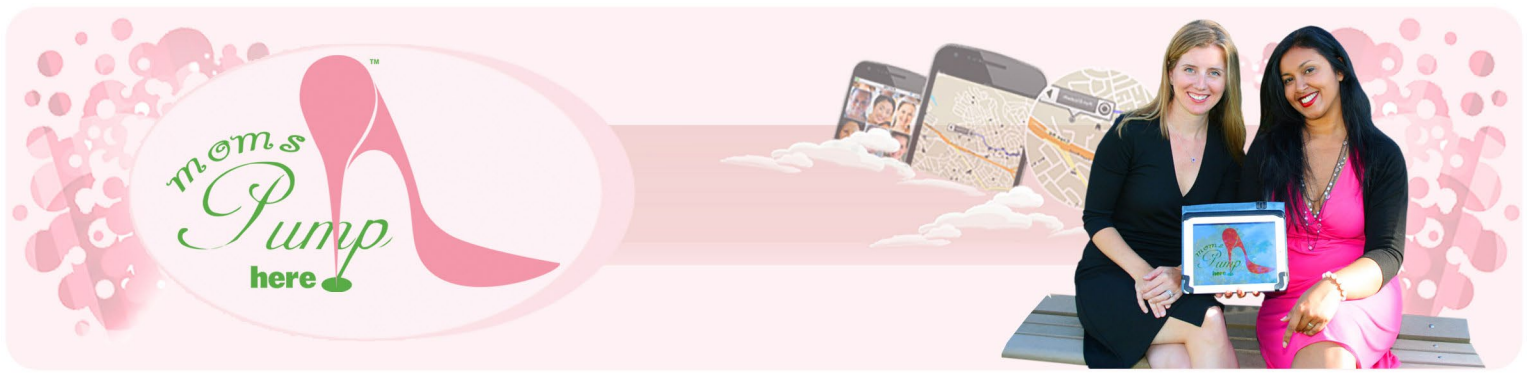

Are you planning a day trip and aren't sure which rest stops have the private bathrooms to allow you to pump cleanly and discretely?

Are you a bridesmaid in your kid sister's wedding and want to know if her catering hall has a big enough suite for the bride and YOUR boobs? Which hotels have in-room refrigerators with freezer compartments? Moms Pump Here can help answer these questions that you won't find being asked anywhere else – and they're answered by moms like you!

Kim and I aren't just work from home moms, we were diehard breast pumpers too. Breast pumping moms don't always have the luxury to pump whenever or wherever they want. MomsPumpHere solves this problem by connecting moms to the closest breast pumping rooms nearby. At the touch of your tablet or smartphone, we connect you to our network of public or private breast pumping spots using GPS and cellular triangulation location (yeah big words). Basically we have a smart nursing room locator that delivers pumping spots right to your location's smartphone. Don't worry no one knows where you're pumping when you checkin, only those you choose to let know. Learn more about how it works and your Safety and Privacy with Moms Pump Here.

How It Works

MomsPumpHere handle the problem of moms having to search in vain to find breast pumping and breastfeeding friendly public places. Through the magic of mobile GPS and helpful moms, we built a database of thousands of locations where moms can readily go to breastfeed or pump milk away from home.

It's Easy! The MPH app find your location and list the nearest places where you can pump or breastfeed. Each location is rated and reviewed by moms who've visited or nursed there.

WE INCLUDED FORWARD PLANNING!

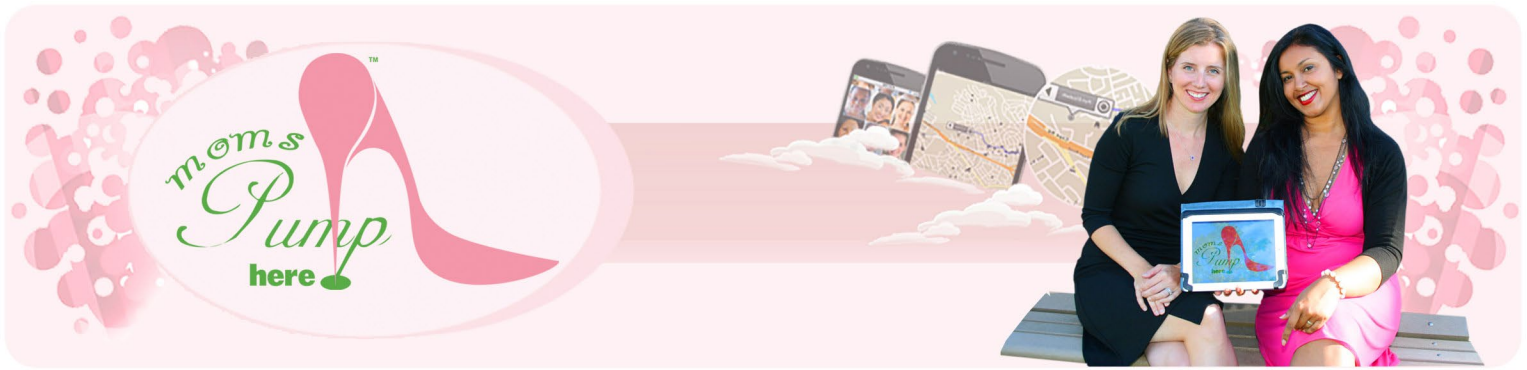

We have you covered when you need to know where to pump or breastfeed before getting there. Our mobile search results show locations matching your inquiry by US state, city, or zipcode. We also provide ratings and reviews to help you know where to go or avoid.

Our Nursing Room Locator app is the must have mobile technology for moms. They're the driving force behind our community and discussions. Moms connect to find answers, products, and resources they need. We produce resourceful and entertaining videos, mom blogs, and great incentive programs for them. Moms are very satisfied and happy here.
